Communication Strategy Workshop

Dignitaries and participants during the Communication Strategy Workshop in Mumbai

Mumbai District AIDS Control Society has identified strategic communication as a key factor that could steer the program to reach 90:90:90 by 2020. With the support from UNAIDS, a stakeholder consultation was convened on 3rd May, 2018. Representatives from communities, NGOs, government sector participated. The best practices adopted by MDACS to reach out to key audiences were also shared. Participants opined that low visibility on broadcast media in recent years had resulted in lowered concern about HIV-related risks among the general population, particularly among emerging vulnerable groups (as they prefer internet to solicit sex). Consensus emerged around the need to spread messages about risky behaviours, safe sex practices, designing of campaign aiming at encouraging testing & adherence to treatment. Leveraging potential of corporate partners to support communication initiatives in Mumbai was felt to be of prime importance.

Workshop on “Mumbai Fast-Track City Action Plan”

Participants interacting during the workshop on “Mumbai Fast-Track City Action Plan”

Mumbai is one of the first Indian cities to sign up for the Fast-Track Cities initiative. Since then efforts are being made by MDACS to reach 90:90:90 targets by 2020. To accelerate the progress, MDACS in coordination with UNAIDS arranged Workshop on Mumbai Fast Track City Action Plan on 10th & 11th April, 2018. Participants from the government, international & civil society organizations attended in the workshop. Following two days of group work, presentations and invigorating discussions, the forum agreed that priority for the Mumbai Fast Track City Action Plan would be reaching those who do not identify themselves as the key population and thus do not access targeted interventions. They shall include adolescents and young adults in the age of 10 to 19, regular partners and spouses and unreached in both physical and virtual networks. The forum marked out priority geographies for service delivery and agreed that the services provided must go beyond HIV/AIDS and be for holistic health and wellness thus addressing key vulnerabilities that drive risk behaviour. The forum stressed on integrating services including SBCC with existing on ground interventions. As a next step, the recommendations are being further elaborated to develop a practical, implementable plan for Mumbai City.
